at Forty-ninth street also did a lot of damage. The saloon at 701, owned by T. F. Kelleher, suffered as did those on Tenth avenue, while the houses in the district were pretty generally left with jagged window sashes. The Ninth avenue surface cars also got in the sone of the shocks following the blowouts and were left windowless.

Inspector Curry, who took charge of fairs, was asked to give some explanaion of the explosions

"High tides are probably one of the chief oguses of the blowouts," he said. "The sewers become clogged and the gases formed in them have no outlet, but are driven to jeek the manholes for an outlet when the tides rise above the river outlet and block up. It is possible that these sewers were filled with gas when some one dropped a lighted match or cigarette

"Some electrical disorder may have started the whole business. We can't tell until an investigation has been made just what did cause the trouble.

This is the second time that the same district has suffered from manhole blowouts, but the damage following last night's explosions was much more widesprea than on the former occasion. On the other occasion the building of so many garages which emptied their gasolen rippings into the sewers was thought to have caused the blowouts.

Fut on Cassidy's Ticket, but He Will Decline and Head His Own.

The Queens County Democratic convention, was adjourned last Tuesday fter the nomination of Joseph Cassidy for Borough President, met again yester day and after much wrangling succeeded in making nominations for the remaining places on the ticket. Lawrence Gresser. pe present Borough President, was nominated for County Clerk; John Neiderstein, the present County Clerk, was nominated for Sheriff and Burt J. Humhrey received the nomination for County Judge. Joseph Flanagan, an Alderman, and John F. Rogers were selected for Coroners.

Last Tuesday's convention was adurned until yesterday by Cassidy for the purpose of patching up an agreement between the Cassidy and the Gresser-Harvey factions. At the first convention the entire delegation from the Third Assembly (Gresser's) district left the hall in rage. Only one representative from the Third showed up when yesterday's meeting was called to order at 8 P. M. He nominated Gresser for County Clerk and cast ten votes for him. The sole survivor's name is Henry A. Rydell.

Lawrence Gresser, Jr., said last night that his father would refuse the nomination and undoubtedly put a ticket of his own in the field. Mr. Gresser could not be found at any time during the day. An attempt was made to kidnap the son in the purpose of patching up an agreement

This raises the question of whether Moore, the Tammany candidate for Comp troller, discovered Mr. Moore's views on transit questions. Mr. Moore's views on those questions are of the utmost importance, to be quickly expressed and thoroughly understood, especially since we are reliably informed that he is now, or until recently has been, treasurer of the Bradley-Gaff ney-Steers Company.

This company, as is well known, is endeavoring to break into the transit situation of this city and desires valuable franchises. Among those associated with Mr. Moore in this company are men with very strong Tammany connections. How very strong Tammany connections. However reasonable or unreasonable may be Board of Estimate and Apportionment for franchises, it seems highly improper that any one so intimately connected with the company should sit on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment when those questions am being considered.

BANNARD STARTS HIS ROUNDS

Visits Two Republican Clubs and a Dinner to Assemblyman Bennett-Says the Man Who Doesn't Register Is a Quitter -Will Have Good News To-day.

Otto T. Bannard, the fusion candidate for Mayor, made what he described as a preliminary round in his campaign last night, beginning with a reception to the fusion candidate at the Harlem Republican Club, at 23 West 124th street. He then went to a dinner to Assemblyman William M. Bennett at the Sherman Square Hotel, dropped in at the committee of one hundred's "chamber of horrors" in Union Square, where he didn't talk, and wound up at the Hungarian Republican Club in Second avenue.

At all the meetings where he spoke didn't intend to make a real campaign talk prior to the fusion ratification meeting to-night, but he appealed to the workers get out the registration. He declared that any one who doesn't register is a quitter and deserves all that Tammany gives him. He confessed that there aren't enough solid Republican votes in New York to elect a Mayor and asked for anti-Tammany Democratic votes on the ground that if the fusion ticket is ed the Board of Estimate will have eight Republican and eight anti-Tammany Democratic votes. Mr. Bannard left his home at 30 East Fifty-eighth street about 8 o'clock and reached the Harlem Republican Club before more than a two score of the members had arrived. Accordingly there was no enthuiasm when he entered, althat his father would refuse the nomination and undoubtedly put a ticket of his everal candidates for minor offices arrived. For a time the Hudson-Fulton celebration took the centre of the stage. It was well done and a fitting celebration which did credit to the city. The celebration is now over and the campaign is on. I am glad to be able to tell you that there will be good news for you to-morrow, and after you hear it you will begin to feel the ground swell as I am feeling it.

On the way from the Union Square exhibit to the Hungarian Republican Club at 78 Second avenue Mr. Bannard's automobile came to a stop in front of the Tammany Hall Pensacols Club. He and the members of his party surveyed the clubhouse for a moment and then decided that it was the wrong place. His machine then got a block beyond the Hungarian Republican Club before any one knew it. There was real Hungarian enthusiasm when Mr. Bannard entered the club, although District Leader William Blau, who presided, said that the candidate's coming was entirely unannounced. DEMOCRATS GET TOGETHER AND MAKE IT UNANIMOUS.

Anti-McCarren Demonstration Soon Over and the Stated Ticket Put Through -John H. McCooey Named to Head

The Republican and Democratic county nventions in Brooklyn were held las night, the former in Prospect Hall and the latter at the Court Square headquarters, each party thue winding up the reliminary work of the campaign by mpleting the local ticket.

Democratic headquarters was packed to its utmost when Col. James D. Bell called the county convention to order. In the gallery there was a noisy anti-McCarren contingent which broke loose in loud oheers when in the course of the procee ngs any oratorial bricks happened

The nomination of John H. McCooey, Deputy Comptroller, for the office of President of the Borough was made by Arthur Sommers and seconded by various delegations.

A big rumpus was started when William Bolger, a young man with much self-possession, arose in the delegation from the Tenth Assembly district, one of the five anti-McCarren bailiwicks, and march ing to the platform put John A. Heffer-nan, President Bird S. Coler's secretary, in nomination against McCooey. He started by declaring that he was going to make a plea for 30,000 Democrats who had been exiled from the organization and didn't want to come to a house smelling of gas, kerosene and oil."

This dig at McCarren started an uproas and for several minutes not a word uttered by the speaker could be heard two feet from the platform.

Amid the noise Mr. Bolger continued his nunciation of McCarren, characterizing him as "solemn," "dogged" and "indifferent," and attacking his career in Albany and calling him "the creator of So great was the tumult that few people in the hall heard the name of Mr. Rolger's candidate and when he retired cheers for McCooey and McCarren resounded for several minutes. His turning down was due to the opposition of Henry Hesterberg, the Democratic leader in the Eighteenth district, with whom he became involved in a personal controversy. The advocates of fusion contended that the anti-McCarren forces would rally to Steers and thus materially aid the entire Republican ticket.

At the meeting of the Board of Estimate yesterday Mayor McClellan said that he had been informed that the Bureau of Municipal Research had had nothing to do with the committee of 100's political exhibit, including its Chamber of Horrors, and that there fors he wished to retract the insinuation he had made on the pre-wious day that the bureau was responsible for the exhibit.

The Board of Estimate in continuing yesterday the consideration of the tentative estimates of department heads for next year's budget finished up about a dozen departments and it is probable that the work of hearing publicly the reasons why the inevitable increases are asked for will finish to-day.

The real work of the board will begin next week when the pruning knife, which, it is understood, from reports which have drifted out of the Mayor's office has been sharpened keenly, can be expected to cut into the estimates.

Among the departments heard yesterday was the Board of Education, which has asked for an increase of more than $6,000,000 over last year's appropriation. President Winthrop of the board explained that $3,498,000 of the increase would be needed to meet the proposed raising of the salaries of the "women teachers and that $2,500,000 would be needed to meet the normal increases of expenditures due to the development of the city's educational system.

Metz's Statement Arouses Chairman Willcox, and Later the Interborough Comes Out to Explain Why There Was Any Delay in Starting the Work.

The statement made by Comptroller Metz on Wednesday evening when he interrupted Henry L Stimson at the committee of one hundred's exhibition to say that it was he, Mets, who was holding up the appropriation of $1,500,000 requests for the extension of the subway station platforms for the accommodation of ter car trains, drew remarks yesterday from the Public Service Commission and the Interborough.

Mr. Metz said that Mr. Shonts, dent of the Interborough, had told him that the company would not be ready to go on with the work until fall and he held up the appropriation because he did not intend to put out a million or so of the ci y's money when it couldn't be used for

Early in the afternoon President Willletters which had passed between the commission and Mr. Shonts last spring, when Mr Shonts assured the commission in March that the company was ready to go shead with the work and that the work could be completed in ten months. Mr. Willox went on:

It will be remembered that at the very time that Mr. Shonts was stating to the commission his readiness to have the sub-way platforms lengthened and that the work could be completed in ten months his company was also advertising heavily in the newspapers that the Interborous was "ready to act" and that its proposals were before the proper public authorities for their action.

It now appears from Mr. Metz's statement that this improvement, which would mean an increase of nearly 25 per cent. in the rush hours and which could be completed in ten months, was not acted upon because of a suggestion to the Compborough.

This was not our understanding of the readiness of the Interborough. It is unfortunate that the work could not have been authorized in June, for the summer months, which is a period of light travel in the subway, could have been well used. Already half of the ten months has elapsed

The Interborough company was very anxious to proceed with the lengthening of the subway stations at the time of Mr. Shonts's letter of March 10, and still is. Shonts's letter of march 10, and still is. If authority could have been granted so that actual construction could have been begun, even by July, the company would then have had the benefit of the season of light traffic in which to do a large portion of this work. When it became apparent, however, by reason of the fact that the Public Service Commission did not act upon the matter until June and that two additional months were required to work out the detailed engineering plan, that this construction work could not be begun before the early fall months, nothing further was to be gained by pressing construction, as that would have meant that the entire work would have been thrown on the compan
